Last Day to Register to Vote is Monday

(Sedgwick County, Kansas) – The Sedgwick County Election Office wants to remind citizens that Monday, February 10, is the last day to register to vote in the primary election.

Registration in Sedgwick County is fairly easy, if you know where to go. Registration applications are available in a number of locations including the Election Office, located at 510 N. Main, Sedgwick County's Westside and Southeast Substations, the Wichita Public Library, 223 S. Main, the public libraries in Derby and Haysville and from City Clerks throughout Sedgwick County. In addition, the voter registration application is available online at www.sedgwickcounty.org.

Most people are not aware that any registered voter in Sedgwick County is eligible to vote in advance of the election. Advance voter applications are available through the Sedgwick County Election Office beginning February 12 and ending February 24 at noon. Applications are also available online at www.sedgwickcounty.org.

"We want to make sure that every citizen in Sedgwick County has the chance to vote," said Commission Chairman Tim Norton. "Getting registered is the first step."
